Consultation
Options considered	1. Do nothing. The system can be run as it is without any further capital investment. This may render the service redundant when either the digital recorders or matrix fails if they cannot be repaired. This is not recommend as there would be no public space CCTV service for Herefordshire, increasing the risk of crime and anti-social behaviour. There would also be a reduction in the ability to support the detection of crime and support vulnerable people.
