Hi

It's a premises licence we have applied for our function (is this the same thing)

Myself and our bar manager hold personal licenses, and our other member of staff has been trained. But is there something that we need to do?

We agree to all conditions that you have stated.

Kind Regards

Chairman

Good afternoon,

If the bar in the function room is to be staffed by existing persons who are already trained, then no further training will be required initially. However some form of training would need to be done every 6 months. This can be done by anyone who hold a personal licence and does not need to be an external training course.

If you need any further information please let me know.

I will let the licencing team know that my proposed conditions have been agreed.

Yours
